

A Narrative for Change

A descriptive narrative told by Terry Watson

The Battle With Moses People

What happens when Black Lives Matter meets Blue Lives Matter

Experience a narrative rarely told and an issue rarely discussed.

Terry Watson brings to life the story of Moses P. Cobb and Samuel J. Battle who are known for their perseverance and determination to pave the way for African Americans in law enforcement.

Although other African American men were hired in NYC as Patrolman, these two were known for breaking down the racial barrier and persevering through times of hate and inequality. This historical descriptive narration allows for a deeper exploration of the two movements of today, #BlackLivesMatter and #BlueLivesMatter!

Come listen to the story of Moses's people and the Battles they encounter.

We believe
Black and Blue Lives Can Only Matter, together.

The Battle With Moses People Sample Addendum

Price based on location

Sample Day Agenda May Includes

(Adjustments can be worked out ahead of time)

-Two Classroom Presentation/Engagement

Each presentation encourages open yet civil discussions. These presentations are appropriate for classrooms/lectures as well as law enforcement training and should be targeted to the programs learning objectives.

-One Community Engagement

This would be a great way to get your local law enforcement to engaged with the community they serve. This presentation allows for a sharing of narratives, prompted by the narratives of Cobb and Battle.

-One Battle with Moses People program and Q&A

The purpose of the BWMP is to

- acquire a new understanding of the #BlackLivesMatter and the #BlueLivesMatter movement from a historical perspective
- acquire an understanding into the barriers and challenges that prohibit both movements from engaging.
- provide insight on how we can continue the dialogue on law enforcement and communities of color distrust.
